

You should be able to complete the two quizzes (A and B) in the 50 minutes. However, if you need more time, you are free to stay after class if you'd like. If you anticipate needing more time and cannot stay (due to other classes or conflicts), let me know and perhaps we can work something out (e.g., you can start the exam earlier).

Please email me if you have questions about the exam.

I apologize in advance for any errors in this answer key.

1. c
2. c
3. e
4. The law of falling bodies is called a law not because it was proven to be true but because it describes the observations (i.e., the relationship between quantities) as opposed to be an explanation (theory). Scientific laws cannot be proven; they can only be supported by observations.
5. c
6. b